That was a long time ago, Ms. Tanden.

As I said, lawyers are actually paid hundreds of dollars an hour to predict Supreme Court decisions. If it's something that you can do with certainty based on 3 years of schooling 3 decades ago, they wouldn't get paid so much.

NEW: Sources familiar confirm to @ABC the authenticity of this letter from current AUSA James Herbert publicly speaking out against AG Barr. "The current attorney general has brought shame on the department he purports to lead." w/ @AaronKatersky

Barr dishonors Justice Department

Many former federal prosecutors have spoken out against Attorney General William Barr, while current federal prosecutors have understandably remained silent. The attorney general's comments at Hillsdale College, however, compel me to speak out as well. While I am a federal prosecutor, I am writing to express my own views, clearly not those of the department, on a matter that should concern all citizens: the unprecedented politicization of the office of the attorney general. The attorney general acts as though his job is to serve only the political interests of Donald J. Trump. This is a dangerous abuse of power. From his misleading summary of the Mueller Report, to his selective intervention in cases against political allies of the president, to his accusation that victims such as George Floyd are being used as mere "props" by those calling for racial justice, to his baseless claims about mail-in ballots, William Barr has done the president's bidding at every turn. For 30 years I have been proud to say I work for the Department of Justice, but the current attorney general has brought shame on the department he purports to lead.

What Republicans are really saying here is they'll support a peaceful transition to Biden if their outright voter suppression, hostile efforts to curtail the ability of people to vote at all, AND court packing to influence election disputes all fail. nytimes.com/2020/09/24/us/…

It might be a good idea for all tv stations in Phila and across the state to assign one day for repeated demonstrations on how to properly mail ballots. Security envelopes are crucial. Naked ballots will not be counted. Perhaps Pa. TV can save thousands of ballots.

While there is some reason to be concerned about a new coronavirus wave, the dramatic size of this increase in cases is directly caused by a dramatic increase in testing over the same time period.

On a meta level it's fascinating to have a senator tell people a president can make up laws by writing them on paper.

They long ago acquiesced to the executive making the rules. I cannot imagine being an elected Congressperson and so easily surrendering power to the decision making of another branch. Of course, DACA was federal policy too, I guess. The rules must have partisan limitations!

Would be nice if local news shows would spend a few minutes of each broadcast going over guidelines on how to complete a ballot in their respective states.

Congratulations on getting those 5% of Republicans For Biden which is statistically equivalent to the 4% of Democrats For Trump.

I sincerely wonder if that strategy will pay dividends after alienating millions of Progressive voters in the process by chasing that 5% though.

Wow not only is DeSantis mandating bars & restaurants fully reopen at 100% capacity and invalidating local mask wearing rules (by barring fines) but state education dept is forcing Miami-Dade schools to go fully in person by October 5: GOP war on big cities taken to new height

In the sense that demand on hospitals affects available beds for others, perhaps. But if vulnerable people avoid the young people who seem to be the new carriers, we should be fine. There's no increase in hospitalizations.

Worth noting that significant delinquent debt disqualifies most people from obtaining a government security clearance.

The U.S. government views this as a vulnerability and a point of leverage for foreign adversaries seeking access to classified information.

As we think through the implications of Trump's tax returns, remember:

Trump got the US Department of Justice to tell the Supreme Court that his financial records wouldn't be of much interest to a congressional committee investigating Trump's susceptibility to foreign influence.

In the Beverly Hills Style: Candidate's $400 Coiffure

By Adam Nagourney

April 20, 2007

WASHINGTON, April 19 — Presidential campaigns spend all sorts of money on all sorts of things. Television advertisements. Polls. Big-time consultants. Coaches for the news media. Chartered airplanes. High-priced Beverly Hills haircuts for the candidate.

Wait, high-priced Beverly Hills haircuts for the candidates?

John Edwards, the North Carolina Democrat, announced on Thursday that he was reimbursing his campaign $800 to cover what his aides said was the cost of two haircuts — yes, you read that correctly — by a Beverly Hills barber, though, perhaps, the word stylist is more applicable.

I was pointing out that your response to @jbouie -- "He. Was. Impeached." -- wasnt responsive to the criticism Dems didnt press Trump on his corruption. I'm just clearing up a fact.

You're now saying it wouldn't have worked. Which is it? Did they or didn't they? Can't be both.

Ok let me try to make this crystal clear for you. Dems impeached Trump for his corruption. The public understood it was about corruption. Adding a tax related indictment would have not added Senate GOP supporters to indictment. Got it?

I can debate all day how the knee jerk reaction is to split hairs on the articles of impeachment when the senate GOP wouldn't even hear the evidence. May want to focus your journalistic ire in their direction.

That wasn't his point. His point was this would have landed harder if Dems had generally gone after Trump for his flagrant corruption, his pay to play. Something held them back, so they went with Russia, Ukraine, and that line of attack. That's the point.

The public thinks the Dems have been attacking Trump about corruption because they have. And Ukraine was about corruption! He did it to help his election. Did you forget that part?

Hence why Trump lost all 3 debates per post-debate polling and polled his worst in the cycle after the debates, particularly the 1st and 3rd. He's an over-exposed blowhard.

There are many things that are enraging tonight. Like not condemning white nationalism. But when Biden talked about Beau and Trump attacked Hunter, it might be the most disgusting thing to happen in any debate ever.

This isn't news, Kellyanne.

Our differences are exactly why I joined Biden's Climate Unity Task Force - so we could set aside our differences & figure out an aggressive climate plan to address the planetary crisis at our feet.

Trump doesn't even believe climate change is real.

I'd be hopeless if I didn't believe in our collective power. We do not have to relinquish the results of this era or this election to anybody. We do not have to concede our ability to determine our own future. We must not hand over our power in the surrender of cynicism.

I can see how liberals might argue in a more measured way, "Anything higher than a 0% chance is too close for comfort," but the prevailing narrative dramatically overstates the likelihood of this succeeding and downplays how many things would have to coincide for it to succeed.

This all feels a little whiny. The suit is backed by a wide variety of GOP officials, including Trump. If they don't want Democrats to say their judicial appointments will tend to lead to them winning the case, they can withdraw from it.

Possibly over-looked thing about Trump's "stand back and stand by" moment is that Biden led him there - Trump demanded Wallace give him a group to condemn, Biden said "Proud Boys," and Trump whiffed it.

They also aren't herding them into a cordoned off area with chairs right next to one another. From my perspective, these people gathered on their own and are wearing masks (since they are not maintaining the 6 feet of distance). This is completely different from the Trump rallies

One of the reasons why the unemployment rate dropped in September is because more people abandoned the labor force. This was especially the case with women, who likely bear the greater load of childcare/homeschooling due to virtual learning.

Whether or not he was exposed depends on the ventilation and air circulation in the facility (direction, force, etc.) not particularly exact distance.

Until we know whether Trump is positive, Biden should take all precautions for his safety and the safety of those around him.

But it's not just distance- it's whether or not people are masked, indoors or outside and for what length of time. Maskless, inside for 2 hours is not thrilling even if they were 12 feet apart.

Be a patriot. Do your part.

Wearing a mask will protect you. But it will also protect those around you — your mom, your dad, your son, your daughter, your neighbor, your co-worker.

Don't just do it for yourself. Do it for the people you love.

The vice president is seated next to a whole bunch of people who have tested positive and although he's tested negative, he's a long ways from being out of the incubation period. Not sure that they should be doing the VP debate in person next week.

I believe I got it from my husband who wore a mask everywhere but in the park (no requirement back then). Several times unmasked joggers got close to him on relatively narrow paths. Of course we are not sure but that seems likeliest.

Now, people at the WH are wearing masks. No one who traveled with POTUS — which was everyone — did this week.

//By Thurs, it was clear something unusual was happening at the WH. Several staff members who have avoided masks were suddenly wearing them.

Whatever they think of the Trump administration, Americans should be outraged at the profound national security risks posed by lapses in White House COVID precautions and irresponsible events like the unmasked Rose Garden ceremony for ACB.

These events not only put leaders of ■ three government. branches at risk; they did so in a way that was correlated. Because COVID is infectious with superspreading potential, if one official gets COVID, many will—and this has potentially destabilizing impact on the US.

It's as if the president and vice president not only flew on the same plane, but brought along members of the supreme court and congress—and the secret service took all sorts of shortcuts in screening the other passengers.

This is what Trump's COVID-minimizing stance and bullying behavior has wrought. His staff has failed to keep the US leadership safe from a preventable threat, and those around him made stupid decisions to go e.g. unmasked lest they attract his ire.

According to CDC guidance, he does not have to quarantine unless he was within 6 feets of Trump. I don't think he was ever that close.

CDC guidance is wrong.

Their guidance continues to be based on large droplet transmission when we now know that aerosolized particles are the primary mode of transmission.

They updated their guidelines last week and then recanted and deleted the update.

Which experts say that you have to quarantine if you've been in a cavernous hall with someone? Experts have said within 6 feet, some say within 10. They were more than 10 feet apart. And this would only apply if Trump was positive.

Friends, the virus is well-established to get worse and better. You can feel good some days and terrible the next. I know of a case in which an 80 year old had a positive test, felt totally fine and died within a week. These doctors telling us everything is fine is ridiculous.

They're not going to tell us, because he probably got his first positive result (on rapid test is my guess) Wednesday morning, and decided to pretend that everything was OK.

So Trump went ahead and exposed hundreds of people to covid-19.

I'm thinking he knew before the debate, which is why he deliberately arrived too late to get the agreed-upon pre-debate rapid test.

I don't know how else to say this, so please forgive my bluntness. I found out my mother died and it's complicated, and I feel shattered in a way that's hard to explain. It's all just a bit too much to process at the moment, and I feel overwhelmed.

I don't know how to mourn right now or how to reconcile her horrific abuse that she got away with. I don't know how to grieve for what never was or what to do with this loss and guilt I inexplicably find myself holding. And I don't know how to contextualize all this for others.

That Presidential SUV is not only bulletproof, but hermetically sealed against chemical attack. The risk of COVID19 transmission inside is as high as it gets outside of medical procedures. The irresponsibility is astounding. My thoughts are with the Secret Service forced to play.

The article flatly states that Biden is violating protocols by campaigning when he is absolutely following CDC guidance which states that quarantining is called for when an individual is within 6 feet of a person with a positive case for more than 15 minutes. Biden was 12 ft away

This outbreak is a reflection of how the WH has handled the national response to this virus. They have continued to ignore the advice and guidance from health officials and scientists. And they've endangered the livelihood of those around them as a result.

What's more is that there's an expectation on their part that everyone else has to play by the rules. And the WH is quick to point the finger at state leaders for not doing enough to stop community spread.

Erin Banco ✓ @ErinBanco · 10 t

You'd think by now that there'd have been some public reckoning on the WH's part that more than 200,000 have died from this virus. But the message has been 'its bad but it could be worse and we're opening back up'.

2 44 204

Erin Banco ✓ @ErinBanco · 10 t

That messaging has consequences. It instills a sense of false security that the virus has somehow disappeared. And that we're all safe moving forward. More importantly, the messaging around masks- that you don't really need them- is dangerous. People listen to the president.

To me one of the more interesting timelines in latest NBC/WSJ poll is Biden's fav/unfav:
1/20 = -10
8/20= -6
9/20 = -2
10/20 = +2

The attacks on 'socialism' and 'sleepy' have not only NOT moved numbers away from Biden, but Biden's actually gotten more popular since the summer.

First lady Melania Trump, who also has Covid-19, would not leave isolation in the White House residence to visit her husband at the hospital, a White House official said Saturday.

"She has Covid," the official said. "That would expose the agents who would drive her there and the medical staff who would walk her up to him."

In an analysis of interviews conducted yesterday, including in Arizona (where a poll is ongoing), there was modest evidence of a shift in Joe Biden's direction after Trump's COVID diagnosis. That said, one day of interviews is not nearly enough to reach any firm conclusions

The shift, though, would be material if confirmed and it was statistically significant, controlling for the demographic and political variables used in weighting. That said, it's still just one day of interviews. We'll have to wait and see here.

Of the two results, the biggest surprise was probably Florida, where we found Biden+5 with ■ R+4 sample. This is a fully updated voter file that reflects some meaningful GOP registration gains in the states.

Very true. It fit perfectly with the predictable oscillation from Democrat to Republican. The last time a Democrat was elected after another full term Democrat was 1856. And that was only after a single term. FDR's four terms an exception of course. The pendulum swings.

Whatever they think of the Trump administration, Americans should be outraged at the profound national security risks posed by lapses in White House COVID precautions and irresponsible events like the unmasked Rose Garden ceremony for ACB.

These events not only put leaders of all three government. branches at risk; they did so in a way that was correlated. Because COVID is infectious with superspreading potential, if one official gets COVID, many will—and this has potentially destabilizing impact on the US.

It's as if the president and vice president not only flew on the same plane, but brought along members of the supreme court and congress—and the secret service took all sorts of shortcuts in screening the other passengers.

This is what Trump's COVID-minimizing stance and bullying behavior has wrought. His staff has failed to keep the US leadership safe from a preventable threat, and those around him made stupid decisions to go e.g. unmasked lest they attract his ire.

highly important that Defendant retains a sense of integrity in its procedures. However, a core tenet of democracy is to be ruled by a government that represents the population. Due to COVID-19, a portion of the population is prevented from registering to vote, and thus the integrity of the election is undermined in a different way; that portion is going unrepresented. Extending the deadline would give more time for those voters to register and let their voices be heard through the democratic process.

The Prayer March on the National Mall that preceded the ACB Rose Garden event was attended by THOUSANDS, few of them wearing masks. Laurie, who is now positive, then went to the White House.

When and where was he infected? How many others from the Prayer March are sick too?

I don't think Biden should duck debates. (The 1st debate, after all, may have doomed Trump.)

But for his own health, Biden shouldn't be in a room with Trump without an independent doctor's assessment concluding Trump is not contagious.

Just to be clear, the White House Medical Unit must be keeping a record of the president's Covid tests. So why aren't they sharing it with us? At this point, we have to assume the worst. He's been positive for ■ while but was hoping to be asymptomatic.

I think @DouthatNYT's effort to turn Trump's virus failure into an interesting complicated story is kind of undermined by this week's events laying bare once again that the main is a sociopath who behaves without conscience or remorse & everything follows from that in a dull way.

I am concerned that the reason why the White House is not taking the contact tracing seriously is that they fear it will prove that the President was infected WELL before the Rose Garden SCOTUS event. WHEN was the President infected and WHEN did he know it?

And an elderly man would be expected to develop symptoms on the late side.. so if you count back 5+ days from Tuesday night, you find that he was already infected and likely infectious as of the rose garden event.

Here is CDC's definition of a close contact.

> What counts as close contact?
> - You were within 6 feet of someone who has COVID-19 for a total of 15 minutes or more
> - You provided care at home to someone who is sick with COVID-19
> - You had direct physical contact with the person (hugged or kissed them)
> - You shared eating or drinking utensils
> - They sneezed, coughed, or somehow got respiratory droplets on you

Only n95 mask will be effective in stoping covid.

Cloth masks only offer some protection.

Why hasn't Trump or industry massively increased production of n95 masks for health workers, and then general public?

NEW: Ivanka Trump likes to pose as a successful businesswoman.

But in looking through her major projects—in Azerbaijan, Panama, and New York—one thing is clear: She's just as steeped in corruption, fraud, and money laundering concerns as her father.

GOLDMAN SACHS: A Democratic "blue wave" would "likely result in substantially easier US fiscal policy, a reduced risk of renewed trade escalation, and a firmer global growth outlook."

. Our market views remain broadly procyclical, consistent with our above-consensus global growth forecast. While a blue wave would have mixed implications for broad US equity indices—after all, the Biden program does include a sizable increase in the corporate income tax rate by up to 7 percentage points—it would likely result in substantially easier US fiscal policy, a reduced risk of renewed trade escalation, and a firmer global growth outlook. These shifts should be clearly positive for cyclical sectors, as well as firms that pay most of their taxes outside the United States. In addition, we would expect a material backup in longer-term sovereign bond yields as well as support for our standing forecasts of higher commodity prices and a weaker US dollar.

I might add that the exposure to the Secret Service in the SUV was unconscionable. This is an airtight vehicle. This is close exposure for many minutes. Masks decrease the odds of infection, but if POTUS is spewing very high viral loads, the risk is very real to the agents.

> "We need to take away children," Mr. Sessions told the prosecutors, according to participants' notes. One added in shorthand: "If care about kids, don't bring them in. Won't give amnesty to people with kids."
> Rod J. Rosenstein, then the deputy attorney general, went even further in a second call about a week later, telling the five prosecutors that it did not matter how young the children were. He said that government lawyers should not have refused to prosecute two cases simply because the children were barely more than infants.

Trump won Texas by only 9 in 2016, and the Republican collapse in the suburbs has made Texas legit purple. Trump won the suburbs 58-37 in 2016. In this poll, suburbs are tied 49-49—a staggering net 21-point swing.

For Page not to demand Pence actually answer her question on the peaceful transfer of power is a terrible failure of moderating. It was a good question, and it needs to be answered. The moderator needs to be, on some level, the audience's champion.

One thing I do clearly remember is I saw and spoke to those in the Obama/Biden administration in this all out effort to free Peter and the other hostages much more than I saw or heard from you about this effort.

Mr. Vice President, out of respect for the Kassig family, I have never discussed, in a political forum, my efforts as Indiana's United States Senator to free Peter Kassig and the other hostages from ISIS captivity. Your comments tonight leave me no choice.

Joe Donnelly @JoeforIndiana · 1 Min.

As you know, I (and so many others) worked day after day with the Obama/Biden administration, our military, and others to try and bring Peter and the others home from ISIS captivity.

Joe Donnelly @JoeforIndiana · 31 Sek.

We worked nonstop to see the Kassig family together again with their son, and I was heartbroken we could not get him home. I know firsthand the hard work put in by these Patriots, including the Administration, that you criticize tonight.

Remember, Debate Commission made new decision amid the context that WH refuses to admit the date of @realDonaldTrump's last negative test...which could possibly prove the commission was flat out lied to.

Perhaps that influenced deliberations..

And a vice-presidential candidate who showed up last night with a COVID-19 symptom? At the very least, that deserved a follow-up before going ahead with the debate. Not to mention said candidate's wife flouting the mask guidelines at the end of the debate.

I actually don't value individual rights above democracy because democracy is the best way to protect individual rights.
Democracies have protected individual rights better than their alternative. If by democracy you mean mob rule than you should say that. But that's a tell.

So where we stand on the Biden end of the debates debate:

-- Their view is Trump has canceled the 2nd debate, on 10/15, by refusing to agree to virtual format.
-- That leaves one remaining debate on 10/22, which they "hope" will be town-hall style.

Also small thing but saying "Democrat" when "Democratic" is more elegant and grammatically correct (as in "Democrat Agenda" rather than "Democratic Agenda") is an extremely reliable sign that someone is a partisan Republican who watches a lot of middlebrow conservative media.

Repeating myself and others here, but the reason Lindsey Graham won't get tested despite having been exposed to many COVID+ people is because if he reveals a positive test and has to quarantine the Amy Coney Barrett nomination could get scuttled. There is no other logical reason.

62%-37% for Trump w/ more than 75k ballots counted, I'd personally consider that to be game over for the president.

The media is playing a game. It's the GOP jamming thru a confirmation right before an election that even makes this a question -but instead of focusing on the power grab, the media is focused on a hypothetical. Because Biden wouldn't entertain this if Barrett wasn't jammed thru.

> Edward-Isaac Dovere @IsaacDovere
> court expansion ■ a real question Biden will grapple w/if he wins—but it's also a perfect example of how skilled Republicans are at shifting the conversation. They've broken precedent on two seats now, and are stoking outrage about how Dems might break precedent in the future

And as they play this game, they are frankly acting like McConnell's puppets, who frankly wants to cast attention on Dems, not his own power grab.

The truth is that if Republican Senators don't go along with jamming Barrett through, this question would go away immediately. It also means their actions are responsible for what happens to the Supreme Court in the future.

The reason we don't have a rescue package is because the GOP opposes it! And Trump's putative support has been too inconstant for McConnell to ever feel pressure to actually have a vote on anything other than a symbolic face-saving bill.

She's right, but will Senator Ernst do anything if Senators Graham and Grassley refuse? Or is this just an empty statement?

So far Republicans have shown themselves to be as reckless with the health of Senators, staff, and workers as they are with the health of Americans.

The circuit court seat Barrett is in became vacant on February 18, 2015. By then, the GOP Senate was already obstructing virtually all nominees, and they did the same for Obama's pick, Myra Selby. In 2017, they swiftly confirmed Barrett. If that's not "court packing," what is it?

When you say that there are very fine people on both sides and one side is a group of white nationalists you are saying white nationalists are very fine people. I don't know why this basic logic is hard. But I appreciate the rattling off of talking points here. Free your mind.

One thing that is incredible is that for all the conservatives arguing that adding seats would be the destruction of the Supreme Court and of America itself, almost none are saying that the Senate should hold off on confirming Barrett until we know the election results.

The issue is really that Republicans have convinced themselves that every argument from the other side is either a trick (Ds will pack court either way, so just confirm Barrett) or a bluff (Ds wouldn't dare pack court, so just confirm Barrett). Because that's what GOP would do.

When the Trump Era is in the rearview mirror we will all look back and celebrate the true heroes of this difficult time — the people who conceded that Trump was bad while dedicating their true zeal and energy to scolding people for being a bit too spun up about his badness.

One can debate the degree to which this is explained by (a) Trump dangerously tying vaccine development to his reelection schedule; or (b) mindless Democratic negative partisanship. But they're both terrible.

The graph does not mean much to me because the question is not precise enough. If the question is about a vaccine that scientists recommend, you'd get a different graph.

Trump looks set to lose the 2020 election by a large margin and if that happens (which again it might not) then he will leave office and there will be no "Trump coup."

So, one thing Lindsey Graham says to justify his flip-flop on saying that he wouldn't support a Trump SCOTUS nominee this year is that "after the treatment of Justice Kavanaugh" he now has "a different view."

Still contagious until 10 days after symptoms resolve.

⚠ COVID-19 alert

Common questions

How is the coronavirus transmitted?

Can I have COVID-19 and not be contagious?

Most people with coronavirus who have symptoms will no longer be contagious by 10 days after symptoms resolve. People who test positive for the virus but never develop symptoms over the following 10 days after testing are probably no longer contagious, but again there are documented exceptions. Sep 24, 2020

New @JAMA_current study from me and @ambilinski: The US has more #COVID19 deaths AND more deaths caused indirectly by it than any other country. A lack of centralized, coordinated response is likely a factor in the high mortality rate: jamanetwork.com/journals/jama/ …

This is hilarious. After four years of Trump trashing constitutional and political norms, we now learn that the mere prospects of a Democratic majority pushing back on Republican radicalism will destroy the republic. What rank horseshit.

> Dan McLaughlin @baseballcrank
> Republicans have done nothing to change those rules. Democrats have made the most of them when the rules worked in their favor. Now that they are not, they're threatening to overturn the board. That's how a constitutional democratic republic dies.

The rules for the voters of the Supreme Court game,, have been pretty clear for 150 years:

*9 seats, life tenure
*Win presidential elections, you get to make nominations
*Win Senate elections, you get to confirm or stop them
*Divided government, you fight, maybe you compromise

You just made up a rule that if you have the senate you can just not take up a nominee. Until Garland that had never happened. It's convenient to say the GOP didn't break any norms. But it's also a lie.

It would be ideal if one of the Democrats on the committee actually read parts of that petition into the record...

It's really showing that Barrett did not have the ordinary amount of time that nominees have to prepare for this hearing. She's making some basic factual errors (at one point she claimed that certain provisions of Obamacare are not in danger, though she later corrected herself).

As the chart makes clear, in addition to Fortas/Thornberry, there are 3 prior examples of nominations that expired after inaction, a 4th withdrawn after inaction, a 5th where Congress eliminated the seat, plus several where the Senate voted not to consider, or to table the nom.

Yes, the Fortas precedent - the only time a POTUS ever failed to get any nominee thru a Senate his party controlled - turns heavily on ethics. The others, however, were not; they were more direct election-year or lame-duck showdowns between POTUS & a Senate of the other party.

I completely reject this. These judges always say in the hearings they respect precedent and then ignore it on the Court. She's not answering honestly her views. Best strategy is just to inform the public of her past statements because that's actually how we know what she'll do

> Seung Min Kim @seungminkim
> A Supreme Court confirmation hearing is a rare opportunity for the public to hear directly from someone who could sit on the court for years, if not decades, and senators on both sides owe it to the public to ask good, probing questions that shed light on a nominee's philosophy.

The truth is that since April, the Trump campaign has been an exercise in throwing spaghetti against the wall in attacking Biden just to see what sticks. It's failed for 6 months. Biden's approval is going up. More juvenile attacks 3 weeks out only reinforce Trump's negatives.

The same Constitution that allows Republicans to confirm Amy Coney Barrett during the election

Also allows Congress to strip the Supreme Court of its jurisdiction to hear certain cases.

It allows Congress to expand the Supreme Court, too.

Buckle up, Republicans.

The judiciary is also subject to checks & balances.

The American people through Congress have the right & the power to discipline a court that works against their will.

Next Congress must expand the Supreme Court & nullify the unfair conservative

I guess I should not be surprised by NYT reporters promoting an email story in October of an election year that is produced by Giuliani and Bannon and promoted by a Murdoch tabloid. Because the disaster of media's handling of 2016 was apparently not disastrous enough.

Good luck with that washingtonpost.com/politics/2019/ ...

> There are two big problems with this claim: One, Shokin was not investigating Burisma or Hunter Biden, and two, Shokin's ouster was considered a diplomatic victory.
> Biden was among the many Western officials who pressed for the removal of Shokin because he actually was not investigating the corruption endemic to the country. Indeed, he was not investigating Burisma at the time. In September 2015, then-U.S. Ambassador to Ukraine Geoffrey Pyatt publicly criticized Shokin's office for thwarting a British money-laundering probe into Burisma's owner, Mykola Zlochevsky.
> "Shokin was not investigating. He didn't want to investigate Burisma," Daria Kaleniuk, of the Ukrainian Anti-Corruption Action Center, told The Washington Post in July. "And Shokin was fired not because he wanted to do that investigation, but quite to the contrary, because he failed that investigation."

The New York Post story some are tweeting about has a huge falsehood in it: Story claims Biden pushed for the ouster of the Ukrainian prosecutor when he was investigating Burisma.

Flatly false. And the ouster was backed by international institutions.

This line from Axios is just... what campaign were they watching? Biden has "gotten off easy on Medicare for All," the issue that occupied weeks of the Democratic primary? axios.com/joe-biden-luck …

Biden has yet to be pinned down on an array of legitimate questions, including:

- His blunt view of adding new justices to the Supreme Court, which will be a priority for progressives if Judge Amy Coney Barrett is confirmed. Biden, who had criticized the idea in the past, finally said he's "not a fan of court packing."
- Biden also has mostly gotten off easy on Medicare for All, police funding, Pentagon spending, fracking, reparations for African Americans, the Green New Deal and his support for the 1994 crime bill.

The platforms now have the power of governments. Nobody would be okay with the government seizing the New York Post and suppressing a story. That's not how we do it in a free society. We argue it out. Or, we used to.

Congrats, I guess.

She's saying that censorship can only be carried out by the government, which is not true. The hollywood blacklist was enforced by private orgs & is generally remembered by history as bad. Whatever the facts of the hunter biden story (I've not read it) twitter doing this is bad.

Cheering on twitter to suppress stories you personally don't like is great in the short term while they happen to be suppressing only stories you don't like but its a very short term outlook, which is the point Ryan is making and its amazing that this has to be explained to ppl

When the Iraq War began the officially sanctioned government position, repeated in all major media was that Iraq had WMDs. A lie. It's not a big leap to see that you could be deplatformed if this were to happen today. Telling the truth but labelled disinformation.

Question for pollster twitter: How do polls of likely voters account for a large increase in new voters? How can a model of likely voters do that if people are voting who have no record of voting before? Always wondered about this.

This makes sense if you consider the Romney Axiom: Corporations are people, my flends.

Corporations hire people who design the machine that decides what to show you and what not to show you.

There is no machine deity deciding. It's people. Call them editors.

The corollary to this is that there will always be bias. Some obvious, a lot not. Some defensible, some not. Some for reasons of ethics, others for money, etc. Because it's all made by people with different incentives and ideas etc.

NEW: The Biden campaign is canceling Kamala Harris' travel until Monday, October 19 after two people in her traveling party tested positive for COVID-19.

Statement by Biden for President Campaign Manager Jen O'Malley Dillon

Late on the night of Wednesday, October 14th, we learned that two individuals involved in the campaign tested positive for COVID-19: a non-staff flight crew member and Liz Allen, communications director to Senator Harris. Senator Harris was not in close contact, as defined by the CDC, with either of these individuals during the two days prior to their positive tests; as such, there is no requirement for quarantine. Regardless, out of an abundance of caution and in line with our campaign's commitment to the highest levels of precaution, we are canceling Senator Harris's travel through Sunday, October 18th, but she will keep a robust and aggressive schedule of virtual campaign activities to reach voters all across the country during this time. She will return to in-person campaigning on Monday, October 19th. This is the sort of conduct we have continuously modeled in this campaign.

Neither of these people have had contact with Vice President Biden, Senator Harris or any other staffers since testing positive or in the 48 hours prior to their positive test results.

Democrats historically protest too little and too softly.

While Trump and Republicans "work the refs"; Dems quietly grumble.

Trump has managed to influence the coverage he gets by merely complaining loudly and incessantly without merit.

I think a lot of credit is due to the Republicans or ex-Republicans, whatever they did in prior years, who stood tall against Trump in 2017-2018 when he was riding high.

None is due to people who in October of 2020 start leaking that he sucks while he's down 10 in the polls.

There are just too many in the media that haven't learned the lessons of 2016. Pushing false Russian propaganda, obtained by nefarious means, and only highlighted initially by a questionable news platform is not journalism. It is actually the opposite of real journalism.

You don't seem to understand the difference between interest and merit.

A group of people "screaming about the lack of coverage" doesn't give content merit.

QAnon nuts scream about a lack of coverage.

Anti-vaxers scream about a lack of coverage.

That doesn't make them valid.

> In late 2017, when Facebook tweaked its newsfeed algorithm to minimize the presence of political news, policy executives were concerned about the outsize impact of the changes on the right, including the Daily Wire, people familiar with the matter said. Engineers redesigned their intended changes so that left-leaning sites like Mother Jones were affected more than previously planned, the people said. Mr. Zuckerberg approved the plans. Despite the efforts of the Trump campaign/RNC, many Republican voters have followed the advice of the President and avoided mail voting. This has led to Dem leads in the states only allowing mail voting so far: FL (+30), PA (+58), WI (+10), MI (+5), MN (+21), NH (+26)

It is hard to think of a more powerful, viral in-kind contribution that Rudy could have given Biden.

Can't overstate how turned off casual voters were by Trump humiliating Biden about his son in first debate. Have heard it repeatedly from non political types.

A staple technique of Russian disinformation is to sandwich the garbage between something real that other people, decent people want to believe (in this case, a father's real love for his son). This conditions the target to believe the NEXT drop: a lie. Please be careful.

It's too early to make comparisons but if we get to 80 million votes before E-Day that's meaningful. I honestly don't get this obsession to talk Democrat's put their enthusiasm. The Biden campaign is doing it as well as leading Dem figures. It's just wrong imo.

> Neera -Vote Early- Tanden @neeratanden

In '18 an advantage among first time or sporadic voters was definitely an indicator of an enthusiasm advantage. The GOP Election Day bias will mute that effect but I think it's still helpful.

The number of people I've seen--including several I really respect--take a New York Post story that is completely bogus seriously is depressing. When "hating libs" is your politics and thus you take Republican propaganda as automatic truth, you need to be thinking about things.

Neera, did you not encourage voters, many of whom were vulnerable to go vote in the primary? Your actions literally resulted in COVID cases, including poll workers. Your hypocrisy is on full display.

Biden on Trump's attacks against Fauci: "Mr. President, you're right about one thing: the American people are tired. They're tired of your lies about this virus."

Coronavirus infections are spiking across the country, but President Trump decided to attack Dr. Fauci again today as a 'disaster' and call public health experts 'idiots' instead of laying out a plan to beat this virus or heeding their advice about how we can save lives and get our economy moving again. President Trump even criticized me yesterday for listening to the scientists — that's not an attack, that's a badge of honor.

Waving a white flag and saying "it is what it is" is unacceptable when thousands of American lives are being taken each week, when businesses are closing and schools remain shuttered. The American

The e-mails told voters to support Trump but the DNI is sure the intent was to hurt Trump? That's a dubious claim that seems motivated by the Administration's desperation to distract from Russian interference and create false equivalencies between Russian and Iranian efforts.

How do we know tonight's press conference isn't on the level?

The DNI knew for months there was a Russian agent who had penetrated Trump's inner circle in order to spread fake anti-Biden propaganda and...no press conference. Just a footnote in a Treasury sanctions announcement.

Trump's campaign is running out of money. But where did all the money go?

nytimes.com/2020/10/22/us/ ...

Despite raising more than $1.5 billion in tandem with the Republican Party since 2019, Mr. Trump is now in the same financial straits as he was four years ago, when Hillary Clinton had roughly double the money he did. The financial pinch has engulfed his advisers and party officials in something of an internal blame game after years of bragging about their fund-raising prowess, according current and former campaign and administration officials. Republican allies, meanwhile, are wondering where all the money went.

.@neeratanden on the Senate GOP's illegitimate process to steal a Supreme Court seat, Americans' health care, and women's rights to control their own bodies:

> American people and fundamentally changes the nature of the Supreme Court from one of fairness and justice to an arm of the Republican political agenda. Senate Republicans want the Supreme Court to overturn the Affordable Care Act in a case the high court will hear just one week after the election. This comes despite 10 years of the American people standing up to block Republican repeal efforts in Congress. They also want to overturn or weaken Roe v. Wade, a precedent that has stood for nearly half a century to recognize the right of women to control their own bodies. This is only the beginning of an agenda that Republicans could never pass through Congress but now want the Supreme Court to accomplish for them.
> Virtually every Republican senator on the committee—and the nominee herself—claimed that President Barack Obama's nomination of Merrick Garland was too close to an election when it was nine months out. We are now 12 days from the election. They claimed the swing in the balance of the court was too great, and now they are rushing through a replacement for one of America's most legendary champions for women and justice with a nominee who embraces being her polar opposite. Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell (R-KY) has broken the Senate, he has broken the Supreme Court, and in conjunction with

Trump insists he'll have a health care plan that protects preexisting conditions, but doesn't point to a proposal or say what policies would be in it amid repeated questioning from Stahl.

He repeats that he'd like SCOTUS to invalidate the ACA.

This is ridiculous. You can't have preexisting condition protections without other elements of the bill - like guarantee issue AND covering a lot more people. People who argue that they are for protections for pre-ex but not anything else aren't actually for protections.

Friends, everyone is turning out. Not just Dems. So keep at it. Every vote counts.

> Nate Silver @NateSilver538
> Based on an update we'll be releasing later today, we're now projecting total turnout in the presidential race to be 154 million, with an 80th percentile range between 144 million and 165 million. In 2016, turnout was 137 million, by comparison.

Make sure every single person you know sees this:

"I hope that they end it."

This is President Trump on 60 Minutes telling Judge Amy Coney Barrett and the Supreme Court to rip away health care from millions.

Democrats will not stop fighting.

The media could not be played.

Bobulinski was the subject of a Breitbart article yesterday portrayed as a "bombshell" in which he says that he read Ron Johnson's report on the Bidens and got mad that he "connected the dots" to think they were making money behind his back.

The Breitbart article about Bobulinski also mentions that he was the subject of the Wall Street Journal article which Trump mentioned at the beginning of the week and said would be a huge problem for the Biden campaign -- but which so far, hasn't run.

The Wall Street Journal is, like the New York Post and Fox News, another Murdoch property, but it's editorial standards are much higher than the Post's -- and we know already that among those questioning the Post reporting has been questioned by the 1st main reporter on the story

Reminder: A candidate for president had a secret bank account in China where he partnered with a state owned bank, and in China these are often shells for the government. He paid more to the Chinese government in taxes than to America. That candidate's name is Trump.

That candidate also praised China's work on the virus this past winter, badly mismanaged his trade war with China and created a travel ban that allowed thousands of people to get through. Maybe it was all a charade because he's in business with the Chinese government. Who knows?

Trump is about to experience the pain & humiliation from a mighty kick in the rear by our 200yr old democracy: packing & leaving the WH, as much as he wants to cling on to power as insurance against all his crimes, real & perceived, only voters decide who lives in the WH.

Why have some countries, particularly in East Asia, crushed the curve while US and Europe lose control over the pandemic?

@WHO: because they detect and isolate the infected, track down their contacts, place those contacts in quarantine, and break the chain of transmission 🧵

Take a look at Vietnam 🇻🇳: as @findingsen writes, once a case (F0) is identified, all contacts (F1s) in prior week or so are identified and quarantined for 14 days. There's more: F2s (contacts of F1s) are also identified & asked to self-isolate for 2 weeks.

I'm in the National Guard and I've been ordered to attend training out-of-state from Oct 25 - Nov 14.

That means I won't be allowed to campaign for the rest of the election.

So I'm handing my campaign over to my wife, Marisa.

Evidence of the Obama winning coalition reassembling - over 2M voters who cast a ballot in 2012 but stayed home in 2016 have already voted. Dems have a 10 pt modeled party advantage among these voters.

I urge everyone to contact all their friends and family about voting. IF folks are voting by mail, now it's time to take the ballot to a drop box or local elections officials. From here, using the post office may be unreliably late. Or vote in person.
Spread the word.

This is a lie. There's no CDC guidance exempting essential personnel. Fauci himself takes precautions because if he got exposed, he would have to quarantine.

They have no qualms risking the health of others for their political ambitions.

New—Texas's epidemic so bad now, Governor Abbott is requesting the help of a military hospital to help civilian hospitals in El Paso, which is experiencing a surge in #COVID19 cases and hospitalizations.

Governor Abbott Requests To Use William Beaumont Army Medical Center For Non-COVID Patients In El Paso

AUSTIN - Governor Greg Abbott today held a call with Dr. Robert Kadlec, the Assistant Secretary for Preparedness and Response (ASPR) at the U.S. Department of Health & Human Services (HHS), to discuss hospital capacity needs in the City of El Paso. A readout of the call can be found below:

The Governor and Dr. Kadlec discussed the need to expand hospital capacity in El Paso given the recent surge in positive cases and hospitalizations in the area. Governor Abbott asked Dr. Kadlec to authorize the use of the William Beaumont Army Medical Center on Fort Bliss to house non-COVID patients to free up beds in El Paso-area hospitals for COVID patients. The Governor also detailed the additional steps the State of Texas is taking to contain the spread and expand hospital capacity in the region. The Governor concluded the call by thanking Dr. Kadlec for his leadership and guidance.

#Iowa is one of the rare states that thinks that LOWER testing is going to make the virus go away. Positive rate is now up to 24%.

Unfortunately for them, hospitalizations and deaths happen whether you test or not.

Iowa is FAR worse than their case counts indicate.

Exactly. This is Econ 101. Firms cannot profit if there is no demand, and there is no demand without consumers with money. GOP econ orthodoxy has been backwards since Reagan. It is time to get back to basics. The proposal from Biden and Dems could be a game-changer for millions.

Kavanaugh ruled AGAINST the six-day extension for Wisconsin to accept ballots postmarked by Election Day. He cited an article from legal scholar (and CNN contributor) Rick Pildes. But in that article, Pildes says states SHOULD extend postmark deadlines.

d. Move back the date by which absentee ballots must be returned.

States that require absentees to be received by election night or shortly after should move this date back. Even if this [illegible] were just certain absentee ballots as a normal election would be rejected for arriving too late. The same point holds about historically high 3 percent rejection rate risks undermining the perceived legitimacy of the election if 70 percent of the vote is cast by absentee ballot. And this problem would be compounded, of course, if mailing back ballots five days before the election is normally sufficient to get them back in time, but not this year. The overall burden on the U.S. Postal Service makes that five-day figure less realistic this time around. Moreover, the significant number of voters [illegible] after the receipt deadline that has not been changed and that is much tighter than in other states, ex post litigation challenging that deadline is easy to imagine. This is exactly what we do not want to face for a risk that can be mitigated in advance.

Big mainstream news outlets are thriving and doing the best job in a generation of defending democracy. Local news outlets, however, are in total economic collapse. And big media is doing almost nothing to fight this collapse.

A quarter of all newspapers folded between 2004 and 2019, and half of all newspaper jobs disappeared since 2008, about the same rate of decline as in textile manufacturing.

For the second day in a row, we had the highest cases of the coronavirus so far. I cannot overstate what a disaster that is - after 8 months into this. We are at 83k cases now. We could be at 100k by Thanksgiving. Trump is consigning people to unnecessary deaths with his failure

Schumer et al ask Pence NOT to preside over Amy Coney Barrett confirmation vote after his COVID exposure. "Not only would your presence in the Senate Chamber.. be a clear violation of [CDC] guidelines, it would also be a violation of common decency and courtesy."

Dear Vice President Pence,

We are writing today about your reported intention to attend the final Senate vote on the nomination of Judge Amy Coney Barrett to be an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. With five of your closest aides recently testing positive for COVID-19, it is not a risk worth taking. We ask you to reconsider.

Not only would your presence in the Senate Chamber tomorrow be a clear violation of Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) guidelines, it would also be a violation of common decency and courtesy. Your presence alone could be very dangerous to many people – not just Senators, but to all the truly essential staff – both Democratic and Republican – who must be physically present inside the U.S. Capitol for it to function. These men and women are the Capitol Police officers, the custodians, the food service workers, the floor staff, and everyone else that makes the Capitol complex work. On their behalf, please reconsider your decision to attend tomorrow's vote.

Nothing about your presence in the Senate tomorrow can be considered essential. You will not need to cast the deciding vote to break a tie. Your presence tomorrow would be purely ceremonial.

We believe that if you and President Trump finally began to take this crisis seriously, instead of taking actions that could further increase the spread, we would all be safer and better off. We appreciate your consideration of our request.

Sincerely,

The Merkel Plan for Wave II:

Close restaurants, bars, gyms, theaters through November, strict limits on social gatherings.

BUT: schools and daycare centers stay open!

This is evidence-based leadership during a crisis.

It is deeply unfortunate that we head into Fall without enough doses of this drug. Many of us were talking about this as early as March. Regeneron did extraordinary work to secure their own manufacturing, but we needed a concerted industrial effort to get the supply we needed.

Re-upping this July Op Ed. Some of the same opportunities we identified here are still open to us. But we need to start taking steps immediately to have enough of these drugs to use as a backstop for high risk patients; and a bridge until we get a vaccine.

After a long plateauing process, #Florida seems to be building a wave (measured by cases and hospitalizations).

#Texas OTOH is more obvious and much further along.

The government and popular response now is MUCH more politicized due to the election and this bodes poorly.

Here's the full exchange in which Fauci certainly appears to call for a national mask mandate through strong questioning from @thenewsoncnbc

SMITH: You've said a national mask mandate is 'maybe' a good idea. Why 'maybe?'

FAUCI: Well, the reason is I would hope we could pull together as a country and realize the importance –

SMITH: We haven't.

FAUCI: Yeah, we have not, which is why I said very clearly –

SMITH: Is it time for the mandate, Dr. Fauci? We lean on you for advice. Do we need a national mandate, or not?

For all the media/pundits questioning Biden's campaign strategy: in new USA poll on whether Trump should be doing campaign rallies in midst of pandemic, 35 for, 59 against. Do you support Biden decision to not hold rallies: 64 yes, 22 no.

White voter backlash to Trump's incitement of violence/racial conflict suggests White America may be shifting on racial justice.

The hopeful view is this creates potential for a Third Reconstruction, or what @AdamSerwer calls an "anti-racist majority":

washingtonpost.com/opinions/2020/...

> All this bolsters the possibility that Trump's overt racism and instigation of racial and civil conflict may be driving a backlash in White America on racial justice issues. This raises the possibility of a so-called "Third Reconstruction" around these issues, fueled by what Adam Serwer calls a new "anti-racist majority":
> > There has never been an anti-racist majority in American history; there may be one today in the racially and socioeconomically diverse coalition of voters radicalized by the abrupt transition from the hope of the Obama era to the cruelty of the Trump age.
> In a few days, we'll learn how broad and deep these shifts really are. And if Trump loses, some serious excavation will go into the role that the revolt of the Whites played in the whole story.

While younger voters are, as you would expect, overrepresented in this group, almost 3 in 4 are over the age of 30. 3.6 million are over the age of 65.

Republicans are working tirelessly in Pennsylvania — and throughout the country — to make it harder for Americans to vote nyti.ms/37RV3Us

> PHILADELPHIA — President Trump's campaign in the crucial battleground of Pennsylvania is pursuing a three-pronged strategy that would effectively suppress mail-in votes in the state, moving to stop the counting of absentee votes before Election Day, pushing to limit how late mail-in ballots can be accepted and intimidating Pennsylvanians trying to vote early.

If Joe Biden becomes president, the last 3 Dem presidents will be people who who grew up in working class families and who rose entirely from their own talents. The last 3 GOP presidents will be people born rich who used their access to power and privilege to advance.

Yeah, what? I have a friend who lived in an apartment her parents pay for, and she doesn't pretend that she pays for it - she acknowledges how grateful she is that they can do that while she works. To do otherwise is lousy.

I didn't vote in this election based on policy. Neither should you.

I voted for a good man with whom I have some political disagreements over an evil man with whom I share not a single value as a human being.

Early vote statistics have been plentiful this cycle. As always, there's some uncertainty in interpretation. Some think there could be a disproportionate # of Biden voters among those registered as Inds/Reps. Data from @DemocracyFund+@UCLA Nationscape suggests that this is true.

American Medical Association is now pushing back on Trump's false claim that doctors & hospitals are jacking up death tolls to make more money saying, "The suggestion is ... a malicious, outrageous, and completely misguided charge."

AMA Statement on Ongoing Attacks on Physicians Treating COVID Patients

The following statement is attributable to:
Susan R. Bailey, M.D.
President, American Medical Association

"Throughout this pandemic, physicians, nurses, and frontline health care workers have risked their health, their safety and their lives to treat their patients and defeat a deadly virus. They did it because duty called and because of the sacred oath they took. The suggestion that doctors – in the midst of a public health crisis – are overcounting COVID-19 patients or lying to line their pockets is a malicious, outrageous, and completely misguided charge. COVID-19 cases are at record highs today. Rather than attacking us and lobbing baseless charges at physicians, our leaders should be following the science and urging adherence to the public health steps we know work – wearing a mask, washing hands and practicing physical distancing."

A few leading indicators of Trump's probable loss that we identified in the spring:

- Biden overperformance in rural, WWC-heavy counties during the primary
- Low and stable approval ratings
- Relatively equal congressional polling v 2018
- A Dem favs advantage bigger than 2016

Trump has finished and left, but there's thousands of supporters who have been let loose into the night with no sign of the shuttles they've been told will take them back to parking. People are filling the street, blocking the road for ambulances and police.

We are going to get a lot of polling in Florida in the next two days. But while plenty of Republicans may vote on election day, they face a 100,000 vote deficit in early vote. And if independents leaning Biden, they have an even bigger deficit.

I defer to the Florida hands. And of course, the GOP could really overwhelm on election day. But I hear from a lot of folks on the ground that most of their regular voters have voted (and most of Dem regular voters have voted too)

Actually that's not true. If one party is bringing more new voters to polls - people who haven't voted before - in the early vote that tells you something. Both Dems and GOP are voting early. But there are signs of more new voters voting Dem. GOP could cancel on Election Day tho

The story in AZ/FL/PA is basically the same one we've had all campaign: Biden winning the 2016 electorate, as he wins a critical sliver of Trump supporters, loses very little Clinton vote, and wins big among minor party vote--with new voters padding the edge.

18 53 404

Florida is a bit different. Biden is losing a critical sliver of Clinton vote, as well, and Trump still wins in 2016 voters--something I don't really recall in prior surveys. Instead, Biden wins with new voters. Right or wrong, it's a more uncertain basis for a lead IMO

26 26 192

Amanda The Pumpkin Queen @princessgleek · 9 Min.

Which is why I trust this poll what you're seeing in Florida is the same as what the dems are seeing and why they're worrying, they may not have taken in consideration independents who didn't vote in 2016 which seems to be a large per centage

That is fascistic. The police don't have absolute power. They need to follow the law and if they don't follow the law, citizens shouldn't be beaten and gassed. You shouldn't live in a democracy if you think this bs. Head to China or Russia.

Calling yourself the winner when you have not won is not premature. It is false.

If Trump's stated intention is to declare victory when he has not won networks should NOT cover live. They can report on it. But it would be grossly irresponsible to cover the lie/attempt to delegitimize results live.

Declaring premature victory makes as much sense as declaring that a vaccine is safe. Could he do it? Sure. Should we lend it any weight? Obviously no. Is that how any of this works? Of course not.

Tired of people framing "Trump will declare victory prematurely" as a media story. Most likely—in part because the White House has telegraphed it so much in advance—the media will be fairly well-prepared. Instead, it's a story about Trump seeking to undermine faith in democracy.

Seriously, look at this — half the people on this website could have pointed out what Miller was misrepresenting, but GS has been phoning it in for years.

> We believe that we'll be over 290 electoral votes on election night. So no matter what they try to do, what kind of hijinks or law suits or whatever kind of nonsense they try to pull off, we're still going to have enough electoral votes to get President Trump re-elected.

The lead on this @ToluseO @jdawsey1 story about sums it up:

> In a frenzied burst of campaigning in the last days of the presidential race, President Trump has accused doctors of fabricating coronavirus deaths for money, pantomimed a physical fight with Democratic rival Joe Biden, mocked a Fox News host for wearing a mask and celebrated his supporters for using pickup trucks to ambush a Biden campaign bus on a Texas highway.

I just want to remind folks that the Quinnipiac poll had Trump winning Election Day voters by a 3 to 1 margin and still losing the state. Be very leery of insights gleaned from people talking about today's voters in Florida.

I just interviewed a man named Pedro Martinez, who walked in a Trump supporter, but walked out of the precinct having voted for Biden.

Here's what he said:

> "But this year? This year it's life and death," the 23-year-old said. "I had to come, there was no way I'd sleep at night if I didn't."
> Martinez, who walked into Calusa Elementary School in Kendall as a Trump supporter, left the premises having cast a ballot for Biden.
> "I don't know what happened. It's just, thoughts about the Black Lives Matter and social justice movement started swirling around in my head. Then came the images of Trump and his white supremacy. I just couldn't vote for him."
> Martinez, a Cuban American, told the Herald his whole family voted for Trump.

In Michigan, 12,530 new voters registered as of 2:30pm today, taking advantage of same-day voter registration. That alone exceeds the margin that Trump won by in 2016.

🚨BREAKING: U.S. District Judge Emmet Sullivan has ordered USPS to "be prepared to discuss the apparent lack of compliance with the court's order" at a noon hearing tomorrow.

Meanwhile, USPS trying to deliver lingering ballots as expeditiously as possible

Docket Text:
MINUTE ORDER. In view of [70] Defendants' response to the November 3, 2020 Court order, the Court understands that "'all clears' [or facility sweeps] and successful certifications were conducted at all processing plants this morning by 10 am local time" pursuant to this Court's previous orders. The Court further understands that Postal Inspectors are/will be on site at each processing plant between 4:00 PM and 8:00 PM local time today to conduct the "daily review process" designed "to ensure compliance at the critical period before the polls close." The Court understands "compliance" to mean that the Inspectors will at that time identify and refer Election Mail in staging and non-staging areas to facility managers to resolve as expeditiously as possible. Given the timing, the Court is inclined to let this process continue. Accordingly, the Court DENIES [71] Plaintiff's request for an immediate status conference. Defendants shall be prepared to discuss the apparent lack of compliance with the Court's order at the status conference scheduled for 12:00 PM on November 4, 2020. Signed by Judge Emmet G. Sullivan on 11/3/2020. (lcegs3)

Biden's lead is now currently bigger than Trump's final 2016 margin in both MI and WI and is projected to grow. Estimates are his PA lead will be bigger as well. If smaller margins were good enough for Trump to collapse the Blue Wall, larger ones certainly OK to rebuild it.

For anyone complaining about the "late" shift in totals toward Democrats in MI, PA, and WI, most of those votes actually came in first.

It's only because those states' Republican-controlled state legislatures wouldn't allow "pre-canvassing" that they're now being counted last.

To be clear: If Republicans hadn't blocked efforts in WI/MI/PA to count mail-in votes early, we would have known last night that Biden was going to win MI/WI.

They knew exactly what they were doing, and Trump is now inciting his supporters based on lies, lies, and more lies.

So a narrow presidential victory and a shellacking downballot is vindication? In an election where the economy is a shambles and the incumbent allowed a pandemic to kill a quarter million Americans. If this is a victory... well, I guess we're well set-up to find out the rest.

Neera -Vote Now- Tanden @neeratanden · 16 Min.
Is there some reason that you think someone else would have done better? Is there any actual evidence someone else would have done better in swing states? Check out the congressional race in Nebraska 2 and how Biden did there. Your wishcasting is not fact based.

Robert Zacny @RobZacny · 9 Min.
As we've amply seen in the last two pres elections, the models we have and their underlying theories of politics are far shakier than they look. I can't know someone would have done better, but we have concrete results today, and they could scarcely have underperformed more.

The job of an opposition party is to beat the incumbent. Biden is beating Trump.
If you'd like we can look at how Labour did against Boris Johnson under Corbyn. That's another model for sure.

They're trying to change history—don't let them. In the chaotic atmosphere of 2020, the Wayback Machine is a crucial resource in the fight against disinformation, and now more than ever we need your help. Right now we're preserving history as it unfolds, keeping track of who's saying what and when—all without charging for access, selling user data, or running ads. Instead, we rely on the generosity of individuals to help us keep the record straight.

Right now, the Internet Archive (which runs this project) has a 2-to-1 Matching Gift Campaign, tripling the impact of every donation. If you find our public record useful, please chip in.

Just as a bit of of context:

— Carter got 50.08% in 1976
— Reagan got 50.75% in 1980
— Clinton got 43.01% in 1992

This is a resounding repudiation of Trump qua Trump. Democrats' problem, which is not small, is that the senate is massively biased against them.

So, AJC is saying 51,000 untallied absentee ballots in Georgia, most "concentrated in highly populated areas, led by Fulton County in Atlanta and Chatham County in Savannah." Biden needs 18,500 to catch up, meaning he'd need to win them 68-32. Very doable.

Real question, though, is if a lot of anti-Trump Republicans are no longer Republicans.

Biden did far better with self-ID'd moderates (+31) than Clinton (+12) and Independents (54%) than Clinton (42%).

This election is fraudulent. The "mail in ballots" are rigged in favor of the radical left as there's a drive into deep left field by Castellanos and that'll be a home run. And so that'll make it a 4-0 ballgame. I don't know if I'm going to be putting on this headset again

If you ever described Trump's 2016 win as dominant, if you ever said he changed the map, if you ever said he's a political force, Biden is on track to win by the same EV margin and 4-5% popular vote. Biden should get those same quotes.

The story of this hour is that Trump did not get the margin he needed in this batch of Maricopa County (AZ) ballots, whereas Biden got more than the margin he needed in this batch of Clayton County (GA) & in various Pennsylania counties.

Just in: Monroe Co., PA in the Poconos region just flipped to Biden w/ more mail ballots counted. Biden is now ahead there by 6.0% w/ 80k ballots counted. In 2016, Clinton won Monroe by just 0.7% w/ 70k ballots cast.

Another huge swing to Biden in northeastern PA.

Statement from Sen. Ben Sasse, Nebraska Republican, sent to me by a spokesman

> "Voter fraud is poison to self-government, so these are major allegations. If the President's legal team has real evidence, they need to present it immediately to both the public and the courts. In the meantime, all legal votes need to be counted according to relevant state laws. This is our American system and it works." — Senator Ben Sasse

The quirks of vote counting shape so many narratives. At this point after 2018 the storyline was liberal suburban women flipping the House and Midwest, albeit by less than they hoped. A month-plus Sunrise/AOC did the Pelosi office sit in and changed narrative to "rising left."

I don't know, but it sure seems to me like not calling the race when the outcome is obvious in states like PA and NV gives the president more time to spout misinformation.

All these news networks we've all been watching have been preaching "reconciliation" and "working together". One great way to put their money where there mouth is is for Fox and NBC (or CNN) to coordinate to simultaneously call the race for Joe.

Whoever wins 270 electoral votes becomes the president-elect.

The US Constitution doesn't demand that the loser concede, or be gracious, or even remotely mature.

Just the 270 electoral votes.

Another dumb hot take: Biden doesn't owe the progressive wing, doesn't need to go FDR-big, should be bipartisan. Biden has inherited big problems. To be SUCCESSFUL, he needs bold ideas and a cabinet with the guts to carry them out. It's succeed or fail, not Left or Right.

One other point of context here is that there was some confusion about provisional ballots earlier because York County incorrectly listed some of its provisional ballots as mail ballots. Those were very D, but they weren't actually provisional ballots.

Nonetheless, we have 3 points of evidence that the provisionals are somewhat D (party registration on unreturned mail ballots, concentration in Philly, comparison to other ballots in counties to have counted them) when they'd have to be MASSIVELY GOP-leaning to save Trump.

> Judge Daniel Albregts told the court that there was "little to no evidence" that an automatic technology to perform signature matching on ballot envelopes invalidated a ballot belonging to one of the people who brought the suit.
> Judge Albregts says there was not enough of a case on the merits to grant the motions filed and said, "I should not usurp that proper law of state legislatures and re-write state election laws."
> He also says there's little need for an evidentiary hearing at this time until or unless the two candidates who brought their claims establish more facts.

96 saw Dem improvement over 94: 84 saw Rep improvement over 82 (in line with prez winning party). 92 is best comparison: Dems win prez but Reps make slight congressional improvement; but at time, it was seen as Perot Rep voters

Jonathan Chait @jonathanchait · 8 Min.

Right. So if we think of 2020 as, say, "1996 but Clinton has 500 Monica Lewinsky scandals," then you have a year when the incumbent party gains ground because of the backdrop, but the prez loses because he's flagrantly unfit.

Jonathan Chait @jonathanchait · 8 Min.

in other words, maybe the baseline isn't "election where president loses" but "election where normal president would have won."

Another way to look at this is Trump effectively scared people about unified control in Washington and if Biden is not the scary monster he was painted to be, some segment of voters made fearful will either not be motivated to vote or vote Dem.

While the margin was not what pre-election polls suggested, statistically it is quite the achievement for Biden. He beat a 20+ person primary field. Came back after losing IA+NH+NV. And then became the 1st man to defeat a sitting president since 1992.

The voters have spoken, and they have chosen @JoeBiden and @KamalaHarris to be our next president and vice president.

It's a history-making ticket, a repudiation of Trump, and a new page for America.

Thank you to everyone who helped make this happen. Onward, together.

There are many cultists on this site, but the Assange cultists are the worst. Assange was the agent of a proto fascist state, Russia, to undermine democracy. That is fascist behavior. Anyone on the left should abhor what he did. Not celebrate it.

Over the last four years, our democracy was tested in ways we never imagined.

At times it seemed to falter, the guardrails tumbling down.

But in the end, our democracy proved resilient.

Because truth mattered, right mattered, and decency mattered.

Because of you.

They're trying to change history—don't let them. In the chaotic atmosphere of 2020, the Wayback Machine is a crucial resource in the fight against disinformation, and now more than ever we need your help. Right now we're preserving history as it unfolds, keeping track of who's saying what and when—all without charging for access, selling user data, or running ads. Instead, we rely on the generosity of individuals to help us keep the record straight.

Right now, the Internet Archive (which runs this project) has a 2-to-1 Matching Gift Campaign, tripling the impact of every donation. If you find our public record useful, please chip in.

In terms of where the popular vote will end up... keep in mind that there are 1.2 million mail ballots in New York State that haven't been counted yet and based on what's happening in PA (which, like New York, had little mail voting before) those are likely to be VERY Democratic.

The GOP is hyper focused on winning the Georgia Senate seats and is contorting their position on the election to help there (they can't make Trump mad!). Perhaps all prominent Dems could also consider how their actions help or hurt the Dems running in Georgia.

There are many cultists on this site, but the Assange cultists are the worst. Assange was the agent of a proto fascist state, Russia, to undermine democracy. That is fascist behavior. Anyone on the left should abhor what he did. Not celebrate it.

The greatest lie ever told on this website is that great parties are ideologically rigid. The truth is great parties are ideologically diverse -- and welcome, not shun, a broad coalition.

That's how you win Arizona and Georgia. Help expand the party.

New statement from P-E Biden closes with the message below -- please share

"I know people are tired. But this will not go on forever....We can get through this & come out the other side stronger. But right now is a moment for shared responsibility & shared action."

> Today, I renew my call for every American, regardless of where they live or who they voted for, to step up and do their part on social distancing, hand washing, and mask wearing to protect themselves and to protect others. I understand it's not easy. I know people are tired. But this will not go on forever. We are moving toward a vaccine. We are improving our ability to test. We are developing better treatments. We can get through this -- and come out the other side stronger. But right now is a moment for shared responsibility and shared action. Together, we have the power to rein in this virus. And I promise you, from the moment I am sworn in on January 20, I will do everything in my power to lead this unified national effort.

The six closest 2020 prez states (AZ-GA-NC-NV-PA-WI) all have Senate races next year. That makes up the heart of the competitive Senate universe, with NH added b/c of the likelihood of a strong [redacted] candidate (possibly Gov. Sununu)

1 6 18

Kyle Kondik @kkondik · 9 Min.
we're not doing ratings of these seats yet -- and those top 7 races are not all necessarily Toss-ups, at least not to start. We'll have to wait and see

Kyle Kondik @kkondik · [redacted] Min.
One thing I had missed pre-election -- former Gov. Brian Sandoval (R-NV), surely the best R option to run for Senate, recently became president of University of Nevada, Reno. Of course he could resign and run, but he also had a chance at Senate before and passed

4 15

Kyle Kondik @kkondik · [redacted] Min.
In re: Iowa, I think it'd probably be in the "potentially competitive" category if Grassley retired. We'll see.

One wrinkle this year compared to 2018/2020: Probably more open seats in the top-tier races - NC/PA will be open, WI could be.

I did not say they were equivalent. I said that Democrats would be in a better position to argue from the sacred norm that losers concede and accept the legitimacy of their loss if they acted as if it was actually a sacred norm.

To be rational, the norm has to be against misplaced, inaccurate, or disproportionate complaints over an election outcome's legitimacy. Your argument makes no room for that.

It's still a partial lockdown, I don't know if I feel comfortable not calling this a lockdown when ALL small businesses in the country are closed & have to beg the government to help them because Amazon is taking all the business, but nope, this is not a lockdown.

One interesting thing about this election is the extent that the 2016 post-mortems and subsequent arguments for how Democrats should win--by basically everyone!--don't necessarily look great in retrospect.

COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY AND INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

INTRODUCTION

1. Since decisively losing the November 2020 presidential election, Defendants Donald J. Trump, and his campaign committee Donald J. Trump for President, Inc., have engaged in a variety of tactics designed to overturn the result of that election. Having unsuccessfully filed numerous unsuccessful lawsuits, Defendants have now turned to a new strategy: pressure state and local officials not to certify election results in key states and then have state legislatures override the will of the voters by installing President Trump's slate of electors. They have actively pursued this strategy, compromising the integrity of the election process, and unlawfully interfering with will of the voters.

2. To effectuate this strategy, Defendants are openly seeking to disenfranchise Black voters, including voters in Detroit, Michigan. Repeating false claims of voter fraud, which have Never Trump was right.

Trump enablers, Trump apologists, anti-anti-Trump, maybe Trump, too-cool-for-school-to-worry-about-Trump--they were wrong.

As you're relentlessly attacking Dems running in the primary, try to remember Trump is president. And with a good economy and the electoral college slant, can get re-elected if the Dem nominee is weakened even before the general.

Fascinating maps. Basically Biden won decisively but yet very modestly: he teased out just enough suburban voters to > Trump's enormous rural white increase (and this cycle, Latino increase) to match Obama's 51% in 2012, but with a markedly different demographic composition.

Nate Cohn @Nate_Cohn

Biden now leads by 3.86 points nationwide, per @Redistrict popular vote tracker, matching Obama's 3.86 pt win in 2012. He'll exceed it soon.

They won by similar amounts in very different ways....

yes -- he got more suburban voters. Which, just to say, was not what many people on this website seemed to understand was the key to victory.

Unlike the dispute after the 2000 election in Bush v. Gore, there is no legitimate path forward for President Trump – regardless of how many baseless lawsuits he files or his irrelevant refusal to concede. He has now lost dozens of cases in multiple states as many of his own attorneys abandon his efforts.[6] There is no valid legal basis to withhold the ascertainment designation under the Presidential Transition Act. As the nonpartisan, independent Center for Presidential Transition has concluded, "While there will be legal disputes requiring adjudication, the outcome is sufficiently clear that the transition process must now begin."[7]

In 2016, by comparison, former Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton won the

Murkowski: "A pressure campaign on state legislators to influence the electoral outcome is not only unprecedented but inconsistent with our democratic process. It is time to begin the full and formal transition process."

Washington, D.C. – U.S. Senator Lisa Murkowski (R-AK) today released the following statement on the 2020 presidential election:

"As states wrap up the 2020 election and certify the results, it is incumbent upon all of us to ensure that we respect the integrity of the election process and uphold Americans' faith in our electoral system. Each state has worked to ensure a free and fair elections process. President Trump has had the opportunity to litigate his claims, and the courts have thus far found them without merit. A pressure campaign on state legislators to influence the electoral outcome is not only unprecedented but inconsistent with our democratic process. It is time to begin the full and formal transition process."

Know there's a lot of anxiety because of these blatant attacks on our democracy. But remember:

Biden will be Pres as of noon Jan 20th.
He got the most votes of any pres candidate ever.
He got the highest share of the vote of any challenger since FDR.

> anxiety. Donald Trump antagonized the elite classes of American society from the beginning of his campaign in 2015, and his supporters loved him for it—and no one more than his non-working-class, college-educated supporters. It turns out that Trump voters with a college degree are more anti-elitist and ideological than the working class. Six in 10 Americans think journalists have a political agenda, but this jumps to nine in 10 among Trump supporters with college degrees and eight in 10 working-class Trump supporters. When asked how much influence liberals and conservatives have on American culture, 56

My statement on the presidential election.

"The presidential election is rapidly coming to a formal end. Recounts are being completed. Courts are resolving disputes. Most states will certify their votes by December 8. Since it seems apparent that Joe Biden will be the president-elect, my hope is that President Trump will take pride in his considerable accomplishments, put the country first and have a prompt and orderly transition to help the new administration succeed. When you are in public life, people remember the last thing you do."

Good and bad. 73 million Americans looked back on the past 4 years and said, "I want four more years of that."

That is a major problem.
